Course Description

This course is an introduction to the world's major regions seen through their defining physical, social, cultural, political, and economic features. These regions are examined in terms of their physical and human characteristics and their interactions. The course emphasizes relations among regions on issues such as trade, economic development, conflict, and the role of regions in the globalization process.

Division Information:

Social & Behavioral Sciences Division

Division Dean: Michael Makowsky 153 MHAB – 432.685.6828

Department Chair: Sonya Laster 163 MHAB – 432.685.6885

Division Secretary: Angelina Dolapchieva 174 MHAB – 432.685.6830

Student Learning Outcomes and Core Competencies:

Upon successful completion of this course, the student will:

- Define and explain the geographic concept of “region.”
- Locate significant geographic features of regions of the world and describe their cultural, economic, political, and physical characteristics.
- Demonstrate knowledge of each region's role in a globalizing world.
- Apply geographic concepts to understanding current events, conflicts, and issues in a regional context.

Inclusion of Core Curriculum Objectives: These Core Curriculum Courses fulfill three hours of the Social and Behavioral Science requirement in the Midland College Core Curriculum. The Core Curriculum is a set of courses that provide students with a foundation of knowledge, skills and educational experiences that are essential for all learning. Social and Behavioral Sciences courses involve the exploration of behavior and interactions among individuals, groups, institutions, and events, examining their impact on the individual, society, and culture. As part of the core, this course addresses the following four objectives:

Critical Thinking: Concepts, models, and theories within the Geographic discipline are presented, compared, analyzed, and evaluated. This is accomplished through the following: class discussions; interpretation of maps, graphs, tables, and models; written assignments; & quizzes and exams.

Communication: Students are required to participate in all of the following: class discussions; essay questions on homework assignments; & written assignments.

Empirical & Quantitative skills: Data analysis and interpretation, including map reading and interpretation, are woven throughout the entire textbook and are integrated into virtually every facet of the course, including discussions, written assignments, & quizzes and exams.

Social Responsibility: Human/environmental relationships and the role environmental stewardship plays in resource management are presented. Increasing global interdependence between nations and societies and the importance of understanding intercultural differences between world regions are also presented. Evaluation of these concepts is included in graded assignments (i.e. discussions, written assignments, quizzes and exams).

Class Policies

Academic Integrity: We commit ourselves to act with academic integrity this term – to be ethical in what we say and write, and to offer credit to others for thinking of ideas before us. I want to share with you how we define plagiarism and examples of what it looks like. Plagiarism is defined as the appropriation, buying, receiving as a gift, or obtaining by any means another's work and the unacknowledged submission or incorporation of it in one's own written work offered for credit. A student commits plagiarism if s/he:

1. fails to acknowledge the sources of any information in a paper which is not either common knowledge or personal knowledge. A student can acknowledge a source through in-text citations, attribution lines, footnotes, or other forms of documentation approved by the instructor. (Common knowledge is the basic information within a field or discipline, as well as most historical dates and facts, and many ordinary observations.)
2. fails to acknowledge direct quotation either by using quotation marks or (for longer passages) indentation. Without the quotation marks or indentation, passages copied directly from a source might be considered plagiarized even if it is followed by an in-text citation or a footnote. The citation or footnote acknowledges that there is a source, but it does not indicate that the writer has borrowed someone else's exact words. If a writer uses the language of a source, word-for word, he/she must use quotation marks or block indentation.
3. merely paraphrases the original words of the source. Some students think they can avoid a charge of plagiarism by changing a few words in each sentence they copy or by rearranging the shape of phrases or the order of sentences in a paragraph. This is not true. When taking notes students must be careful to put ideas in their own words or to use direct quotations when relying on phrases directly borrowed from a source.

4. borrow the ideas, examples, or structure of the source without acknowledging it. A student can be guilty of plagiarism if s/he systematically borrows the ideas and organization of a source even if the language of the piece is on a major news event by using exactly the same ideas in the same order as they appear in an article in any popular news magazine.
5. takes, buys, or receives a paper written by someone else and presents it as the student's own.
6. uses one paper for two different courses, or re-uses a paper previously submitted for credit, without the prior approval of the instructor or instructors.
