Course Description

Life-Span Growth and Development is a study of social, emotional, cognitive and physical factors and influences of a developing human from conception to death.

Division Information:

Social & Behavioral Sciences Division

Division Dean: Michael Makowsky 153 MHAB – 432.685.6828

Department Chair: Dr. Jay Schwarz 172 MHAB – 432.685.6826

Division Secretary: Angelina Dolaptchieva 174 MHAB – 432.685.6830

Student Learning Outcomes:

Upon successful completion of this course, the student will:

- Describe the stages of the developing person at different periods of the life span from birth to death.
- Discuss the social, political, economic, and cultural forces that affect the development process of the individual.
- Identify factors of responsible personal behavior with regard to issues such as sexual activity, substance abuse, marriage and parenting.
- Explain the biosocial, cognitive and psychological influences throughout the lifespan as an ongoing set of processes, involving both continuity and change.
- Describe the different developmental perspectives of the major theories of development (i.e. cognitive, learning, humanistic and psychodynamic).
- Identify examples of some of the cultural and ethnic differences that influence development throughout the lifespan.
- Discuss the various causes or reasons for disturbances in the developmental process.

Class Policies

Academic Integrity: We commit ourselves to act with academic integrity this term – to be ethical in what we say and write, and to offer credit to others for thinking of ideas before us. I want to share with you how we define plagiarism and examples of what it looks like. Plagiarism is defined as the appropriation, buying, receiving as a gift, or obtaining by any means another's work and the unacknowledged submission or incorporation of it in one's own written work offered for credit. A student commits plagiarism if s/he:

1. fails to acknowledge the sources of any information in a paper which is not either common knowledge or personal knowledge. A student can acknowledge a source through in-text citations, attribution lines, footnotes, or other forms of documentation approved by the instructor. (Common knowledge is the basic information within a field or discipline, as well as most historical dates and facts, and many ordinary observations.)
2. fails to acknowledge direct quotation either by using quotation marks or (for longer passages) indentation. Without the quotation marks or indentation, passages copied directly from a source might be considered plagiarized even if it is followed by an in-text citation or a footnote. The citation or footnote acknowledges that there is a source, but it does not indicate that the writer has borrowed someone else's exact words. If a writer uses the language of a source, word-for word, he/she must use quotation marks or block indentation.
3. merely paraphrases the original words of the source. Some students think they can avoid a charge of plagiarism by changing a few words in each sentence they copy or by rearranging the shape of phrases or the order of sentences in a paragraph. This is not true. When taking notes students must be careful to put ideas in their own words or to use direct quotations when relying on phrases directly borrowed from a source.
4. borrow the ideas, examples, or structure of the source without acknowledging it. A student can be guilty of plagiarism if s/he systematically borrows the ideas and organization of a source even if the language of the piece is on a major news event by using exactly the same ideas in the same order as they appear in an article in any popular news magazine.
5. takes, buys, or receives a paper written by someone else and presents it as the student's own.
6. uses one paper for two different courses, or re-uses a paper previously submitted for credit, without the prior approval of the instructor or instructors.
